Bringing as Means of Conviction.

The Argus for sixteen years has attempted to create capital out of continual bragging and prophesying. There has never been a time when it has not been covered by converts crowding into the Democratic church. It cannot be that the Argus believes all of its predictions which the election returns prove to be the wildest exaggerations—so wild that they might properly be regarded as the sportive extravagance of a child.

Just now for about the twentieth time, the Argus is trying its old game of bluff and brag in the hope that it may lead some drifting people into the Democratic camp. Just to show what kind of a prophet the Argus is, we will quote a few of some of its prophetic utterances in 1868:

In July, 1868, the Argus said:

Congress is so alarmed at the dissolving prospects of Grant's election, that the leaders are determined not to let the Democrats only take a recess. * * * But all this we don't save them. The people are moving and their doom is sealed. The Democrats will shiver and in it September, but they cannot alter it.

In the same month under the head of "How the Tide has Turned," gives the names of eleven Republicans of national reputation who are supporting Seymour. It is said that this number by no means completes the list.

July 16th, 1868, quoting the World the Argus puts down the election of Seymour a certainty, being sure of securing 160 votes.

In November the Democrats party secured half of that number, carrying New York, as Mr. Greeley said by shameful frauds.

Again, Aug. 6th, the Argus says the Democrats of Indiana feel sanguine of carrying that State by 15,000. Every day the prospect looks brighter.

The Democrats lacked nearly 10,000 of carrying Indiana.

The same date it disagrees with the Chicago Times for allowing Grant 123 electoral votes to 171 for Seymour. Eastern Democratic editors condemn Grant but 116.

Grant's vote really was 286, more than double what the Argus counted.

August 11th the Argus declares it is by no means certain that the radicals can carry the second district of this State.

The Republican majority in the second district was 4,000.

The Argus of August 15th, says the news that comes from every quarter is of the most cheering character for the conservatives. It's strong current is making steady and rapid progress. It's strong current is still onward and will overwhelm radicals in November.

The same issue says that the news of Grant's name to awaken enthusiasm here, because apparent that the question of withdrawing him is really agitated.

Nevertheless Grant's popular majority was 300,000.

August 17th, the Argus quotes an Indiana paper to show that the Republicans only felt sure of 151 electoral votes—eight less than a majority.

The Argus said: We do not, however, concede all of the States claimed by the Jacobins. We claim Indiana, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Nevada, reducing their vote to 117 * * *

They look they are confronted with the ghastly certainty of going out of power March 4th next.

In the same issue it speaks of the great "reaction" and that the Jacobins have the thunder and are trying to stay the tide. Yain effort!

August 10th, 1868, Wisconsin was regarded safe for Seymour, by this accurate sheet.

The Republican majority was 24,447.

August 20th, the Republican platform is bound to go down and the conservative platform to go up. That is the feeling of the people, says this prophetic sheet.

August 21st, the Argus gives a large number of items of converts of the Democratic party by scores and hundreds.

Nevertheless the Republican candidates were elected by a large popular majority than any President or Governor, Mr. Lincoln in 1864.

August 31st, the Argus has the most cheering intelligence from the great West. It even claims Iowa.

The Republican majority was 46,200.

September 5th it says:

Viewed in any light the indications all point to an overwhelming Democratic victory in November. Again "The conservative tide is sweeping on and will carry all before it."

Sept. 7th, this oracle predicted that the radical majority in Maine would be whittled down to almost nothing. The Republican majority was whittled down to 19,310.

Sept. 9th, it says the Democracy were monopolizing the most of the great political contests now raging in Europe. It is too bad, it "monopoly," affirmed the Republicans 976 majority the next Monday.

In July, 1868, the Argus quotes approvingly—all ways quotes, the following from the Louisville Courier: "Greeley says that truth will out. Certainly, but not out of his mouth."

Pending most any election the last sixteen years we may find column after column of this stupid bragging. Has not the Argus learned that the people cannot be bullied into the Democratic party? Has it no fears that this sort of prediction against any party, that it does not strike people as falsehood, will lead them to believe that our neighbor is remarkably economical of the truth or that its judgment is worthless? In short, hasn't the prophesy done about played out?

Mr. Wilson's Prediction.

In his speech at Cooper Institute in April Senator Wilson said that in 1860, in 1864, and in 1868 he predicted how the States would go. In the first year he did not miss one, and on the other occasions he missed one each—the last time he did not comprehend the "coming power of Tammany." He then predicted that at the coming election twenty-seven States would go for Grant. Friday, while the Senator was in New York, he was confronted with the alleged statement that he had said Grant would carry but one State. Mr. Wilson remarked to his interviewer that he still adhered to his Cooper Institute prediction, and that Grant would carry twenty-seven States. This puts a quietus upon a class of roosterbait which is becoming quite numerous among the Federalists. They have discovered that all the world is breaking. It is too bad that the Republican lies are breaking. It is too bad that he is obliged to remove this delusion and present their case in all its naked deformity, but it must be done.

Model Reformers.

Gen. Kilpatrick and Theodore Tilton, with their wives, will arrive in this city on Friday night—Boston Herald.

"These gentlemen are not accustomed to travel in such company. The Commercial Union says that the Bangor public needs special assurance that Tilton will not be accompanied by Mrs. Woodhull and that Kilpatrick will not be accompanied by the woman with whom he scandalized the Court of Chilly, making his removal from the position of minister to that country an absolute necessity from considerations of simple decency. Nice people these to teach 'reform' to the citizens of Maine."

A Sample of Dirty Lying.

A Washington correspondent of the Boston Post recently wrote that paper that the Speaker of the South Carolina House of Representatives had accepted $15,000 for the chairman of one Committee and $20,000 for a similar position on another Committee. Some of our Maine Democratic papers changed the item so as to make it apply to Speaker Blaine, and had the audacity to publish it, knowing it to be the villainous lie of it. There may be something lower in slinky journalism, but it can't be reached by land.

This extract from a letter published in our telegraphic columns of yesterday does not sound much like Charles Sumner. To give an account of the reasons for supporting a candidate for the Presidency the fact that he and the candidate were born the same year, is hardly so good logic as it would be for one to commit suicide because a man born in the same year happened to be killed by lightning.

It was in July, 1868, that the Argus styled Mr. Greeley a "brain-frenzied philosopher."

Political Notes.

The Republicans of Ohio are at work perfecting the most thorough and complete organization ever made in that State.

The Macchia Republicana says:

We are sure in saying that there is not a single Republican in Ohio who is not a Republican, who will vote for Horace Greeley. We do not believe there is a single man in Macchia, who, like the late Mr. Greeley, is a Republican party, and who did not need looking after on election day, who would not feel ashamed and degraded to put a Democratic vote into the ballot box, for a vote for Horace Greeley, is at all intents and purposes, a Democratic vote.

In July, 1868, the Argus thus pays its compliments to Gen. Cochrane, now Mr. Greeley's right hand man as "the renegade Democrat and shoddy contractor and the very person embodied in Burnside's General order No. 8, directing the capture of the commanding First Brigade, Third Division, Sixth Army Corps, be dismissed from the Military Service of the United States."

The Kennebec Journal says a vote of the passengers in one car was taken on the afternoon train between Augusta and Waterville on Friday, when the Democratic party secured half of that number, carrying New York, as Mr. Greeley said by shameful frauds.

Again, Aug. 6th, the Argus says the Democrats of Indiana feel sanguine of carrying that State by 15,000. Every day the prospect looks brighter.

The Democrats lacked nearly 10,000 of carrying Indiana.

There may be something lower in slinky journalism, but it can't be reached by land.

This extract from a letter published in our telegraphic columns of yesterday does not sound much like Charles Sumner. To give an account of the reasons for supporting a candidate for the Presidency the fact that he and the candidate were born the same year, is hardly so good logic as it would be for one to commit suicide because a man born in the same year happened to be killed by lightning.

It was in July, 1868, that the Argus styled Mr. Greeley a "brain-frenzied philosopher."

Political Notes.

The Republicans of Ohio are at work perfecting the most thorough and complete organization ever made in that State.

The Macchia Republicana says:

We are sure in saying that there is not a single Republican in Ohio who is not a Republican, who will vote for Horace Greeley. We do not believe there is a single man in Macchia, who, like the late Mr. Greeley, is a Republican party, and who did not need looking after on election day, who would not feel ashamed and degraded to put a Democratic vote into the ballot box, for a vote for Horace Greeley, is at all intents and purposes, a Democratic vote.

In July, 1868, the Argus thus pays its compliments to Gen. Cochrane, now Mr. Greeley's right hand man as "the renegade Democrat and shoddy contractor and the very person embodied in Burnside's General order No. 8, directing the capture of the commanding First Brigade, Third Division, Sixth Army Corps, be dismissed from the Military Service of the United States."

The Kennebec Journal says a vote of the passengers in one car was taken on the afternoon train between Augusta and Waterville on Friday, when the Democratic party secured half of that number, carrying New York, as Mr. Greeley said by shameful frauds.

Again, Aug. 6th, the Argus says the Democrats of Indiana feel sanguine of carrying that State by 15,000. Every day the prospect looks brighter.

The Democrats lacked nearly 10,000 of carrying Indiana.

The same date it disagrees with the Chicago Times for allowing Grant 123 electoral votes to 171 for Seymour. Eastern Democratic editors condemn Grant but 116.

Grant's vote really was 286, more than double what the Argus counted.

August 11th the Argus declares it is by no means certain that the radicals can carry the second district of this State.

The Republican majority in the second district was 4,000.

The Argus of August 15th, says the news that comes from every quarter is of the most cheering character for the conservatives. It's strong current is making steady and rapid progress. It's strong current is still onward and will overwhelm radicals in November.

The same issue says that the news of Grant's name to awaken enthusiasm here, because apparent that the question of withdrawing him is really agitated.

Nevertheless Grant's popular majority was 300,000.

August 17th, the Argus quotes an Indiana paper to show that the Republicans only felt sure of 151 electoral votes—eight less than a majority.

The Argus said: We do not, however, concede all of the States claimed by the Jacobins. We claim Indiana, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Nevada, reducing their vote to 117 * * *

They look they are confronted with the ghastly certainty of going out of power March 4th next.

In the same issue it speaks of the great "reaction" and that the Jacobins have the thunder and are trying to stay the tide. Yain effort!

August 10th, 1868, Wisconsin was regarded safe for Seymour, by this accurate sheet.

The Republican majority was 24,447.

August 20th, the Republican platform is bound to go down and the conservative platform to go up. That is the feeling of the people, says this prophetic sheet.

August 21st, the Argus gives a large number of items of converts of the Democratic party by scores and hundreds.

Nevertheless the Republican candidates were elected by a large popular majority than any President or Governor, Mr. Lincoln in 1864.

August 31st, the Argus has the most cheering intelligence from the great West. It even claims Iowa.

The Republican majority was 46,200.

September 5th it says:

Viewed in any light the indications all point to an overwhelming Democratic victory in November. Again "The conservative tide is sweeping on and will carry all before it."

Sept. 7th, this oracle predicted that the radical majority in Maine would be whittled down to almost nothing. The Republican majority was whittled down to 19,310.

Sept. 9th, it says the Democracy were monopolizing the most of the great political contests now raging in Europe. It is too bad, it "monopoly," affirmed the Republicans 976 majority the next Monday.

In July, 1868, the Argus quotes approvingly—all ways quotes, the following from the Louisville Courier: "Greeley says that truth will out. Certainly, but not out of his mouth."

Pending most any election the last sixteen years we may find column after column of this stupid bragging. Has not the Argus learned that the people cannot be bullied into the Democratic party? Has it no fears that this sort of prediction against any party, that it does not strike people as falsehood, will lead them to believe that our neighbor is remarkably economical of the truth or that its judgment is worthless? In short, hasn't the prophesy done about played out?

Model Reformers.

Gen. Kilpatrick and Theodore Tilton, with their wives, will arrive in this city on Friday night—Boston Herald.

"These gentlemen are not accustomed to travel in such company. The Commercial Union says that the Bangor public needs special assurance that Tilton will not be accompanied by Mrs. Woodhull and that Kilpatrick will not be accompanied by the woman with whom he scandalized the Court of Chilly, making his removal from the position of minister to that country an absolute necessity from considerations of simple decency. Nice people these to teach 'reform' to the citizens of Maine."

A Sample of Dirty Lying.

A Washington correspondent of the Boston Post recently wrote that paper that the Speaker of the South Carolina House of Representatives had accepted $15,000 for the chairman of one Committee and $20,000 for a similar position on another Committee. Some of our Maine Democratic papers changed the item so as to make it apply to Speaker Blaine, and had the audacity to publish it, knowing it to be the villainous lie of it. There may be something lower in slinky journalism, but it can't be reached by land.
